

Kurzsynopsis – ENGLISH

A worldwide epidemic breaks out, which affects only women and leads to death after a few weeks. Aided by her husband Konstantin, Valeria flees to the South, after showing symptoms of the deadly disease. In a small cottage by the country, they wait for her death.

Dialoglist REINA – ENGLISH

VOICE 01:

Good afternoon, speaking to you is the chairman for the department of epidemiology at Charite hospital. Given the current state of affairs, I feel it in my duty to reveal everything I know. The DVX or DRAA virus is unlike anything else. No similar virus exists or has ever existed. I can now say, that it has become irrevocably clear that we have reached our limit. Thank you.

VOICE 02:

I discovered the rash on my wife's back yesterday morning. How long does she have left? 6 days? So be it, but she will die here, at home, with me. A bullet for every soldier or cop who comes close. Thank you.

VOICE 03:

Has anyone in the last three months seen a woman? I don't believe a word of what the media is saying. I mean, seriously, there's got to be a reason for all this. A horrible disease that only affects females? Sure, nature has a plan and we, we aren't a part of it. We're out. Fuck.

VOICE 04:

They just took her. They came at night, broke down the door and they took her because she's not sick. Fuck.

VOICE 05:

I wanted to call you, because I read something the philosopher and politician Miguel Gallitano wrote in 1962. I quote: The transition to a female era is inevitable. To this day, the bee hive remains the only proxy of a perfect system of governance. Hey, has any of you given a moment's thought to what that might actually mean? No? well, you better should.

KONSTANTIN:

It's only a flat tire. We'll get moving soon. Stay quiet.
What's the matter?

VALERIA:

Water?

KONSTANTIN:

Here. We'll be there soon. It won't take long now. Are you ok?
I'm ok

Go away

VALERIA:

Do you think it's gross?

KONSTANTIN:

No

VALERIA:

Say the truth

KONSTANTIN:

that is the truth

VALERIA:

i think it's gross

KONSTANTIN:

But I don't

KONSTANTIN:

Valeria, Valeria

Do you feel all right?

VALERIA:

Yes

KONSTANTIN:

What's the matter?

VALERIA:

I was just thinking. This whole country. It belongs to us now. Both my father and my grandfather tried to cultivate it, but neither succeeded. I thought, maybe you and I can try.

KONSTANTIN:

You got to be kidding? I wake up and you're gone. I find blood in the sink. I am worried sick you idiot.

VALERIA:

You're worried...

You're worried

You're worried?

KONSTANTIN:

Come on, let's just go inside.

VALERIA:

Konstantin

please fetch me the Bluminax

KONSTANTIN:

Bluminax

VALERIA:

It's in my black bag

KONSTANTIN:

Where?

VALERIA:

It's in my black bag

Mix one drop with 20mm of salt water, fill the syringe and bring it here.

KONSTANTIN:

One moment

Here

VALERIA:

in the gluteus

KONSTANTIN:

What

VALERIA:

In my butt. Desinfect it

The air

RADIOVOICE 01:

...it's disrespectful

RADIOVOICE 02:

no, excuse me, I would like to remind you that, I've lost my wife and daughters. But as a politician it's my duty to keep moving forward. If men keep blaming themselves for the extinction of women we won't move forward. The world had widowed. And we already had our mourning. We have to join forces and keep on. Even without them.

VALERIA:

Thank you

KONSTANTIN:

Enjoy your meal

VALERIA:

I want to go out today,

KONSTANTIN:

Valeria, is everything ok? What are you doing?

VALERIA:

Do you remember that morning when I woke up with the first symptoms? You said to me. You said to me, that this can't be, that I just can't die. Do you remember?

KONSTANTIN:

Yes, of course I remember

VALERIA:

But do you understand it?

KONSTANTIN:
What's there to understand?

VALERIA:
Konstantin, I have seen the perfection of this horror. Everything that happened. It can't be a coincidence. No woman has survived this, not one. Don't you think that's strange? Look at my back.

KONSTANTIN:
There are scars on your back. Come on, let us continue this downstairs.

VALERIA:
That field in front of the house. You know that only weeds grow there.

KONSTANTIN:
Yes

VALERIA:
Do you also know what has to be done with such a field? It has to be burnt down. All of it. The whole field. Only then, can new crops grow.

KONSTANTIN:
What, what is this? What is it, that you want to do?

VALERIA:
What I want doesn't matter anymore. It's my duty. I am the only one left who can handle it now.

KONSTANTIN:
Ok, Valeria, I support you with whatever it is you want to do. You know that.

VALERIA:
You don't understand. I can't stay here with you in this house anymore. There is nothing left to change. I want you to understand that.

KONSTANTIN:
Stop this nonsense. You are crazy.

VALERIA:
You know I am not.